Local Boy In The Photograph

There's no mistake, I smell that smell
 It's that time of year again, I can taste the air
 The clocks go back, railway track
 Something blocks the line again
 And the train runs late for the first time

A pebble beach, we're underneath, a pier that's just been painted red
 Where I heard the news for the first time

And all the friends lay down the flowers
 Sit on the banks and drink for hours
 Talk of the way they saw him last
 Local boy in the photograph
 Today
 He'll always be 23, yet the train runs on and on Past the place they found his clothing
 There's no mistake, I smell that smell
 It's that time of year again, I can taste the air
 The clocks go back, railway track

Something blocks the line again
 And the train runs late for the first time
 Today

And all the friends lay down the flowers
 Sit on the banks and drink for hours
 Talk of the way they saw him last
 Local boy in the photograph
 Today

He's gone away
